TWO SCHOONERS WRECKED IN STORM

Crews Rescued By Coast Guards As Vessels Go to Pieces on Plum Island and Salisbury Beach

The two masted schooner Josie, bound from Machias, Me., for New York with a cargo of fish was wrecked at Plum Island, mouth of Newburyport harbor Friday afternoon, and will be a total loss.

Her crew of three men, Captain Augustus Mitchell, 33, single, of Machias, Me.; Samuel Colson, 42, cook, married; of Machias, and Edgar Berry, 25, single, of Machiasport, were rescued with difficulty by Captain E. B. Stevens of the Plum Island Coast Guard Station, near which the wreck occurred. He was assisted by Captain T. E. Maddock of the Newburyport station and A. C. Fowler, William Bond and Frank Bond, volunteers. The regulars are on sunnyside.

The breeches buoy was used in making the rescue, as Captain Mitchell and Colson were in a badly exhausted condition.

Considerable difficulty was experienced in rigging the life saving apparatus. Captain Stevens shot the line aboard the Josie all right and the whip was hauled aboard. Then the line and whip were fouled by wreckage that filled the surf and the buoy could not be used.

The Josie had by this time pounded in to a point 100 feet from shore and Berry made the distance on the whip, going hand over hand. It was a thrilling experience for him and for the band of watchers ashore. The surf washed over him and several times he had a narrow escape from being dashed into the breakers.

Captain Mitchell and Cook Colson were not strong enough to attempt the feat and another line was sent across the flying jibboom on which they had taken refuge. They managed to haul a hawser aboard. This time everything worked all right and they were brought ashore in the buoy.

The rescued men were given hot drinks and the captain and cook put in bed. Colson complained of severe cramps. It is expected that both men will recover.

The Josie left Machiasport Wednesday afternoon and ran into the storm Thursday the wind blowing a gale from the northeast and a thick fog being encountered.

The vessel made hard weather on Thursday night and Colson and Berry were kept at the pumps, while Captain Mitchell stood continuously at the wheel.

At daybreak Friday morning they

HUGHES REPUBLICAN ROOSEVELT PROG.

Conventions Nominate Their Respective Candidates on First Ballot This Afternoon

(Special to The Herald)

Chicago, June 10, 2 p. m.—At exactly 12:29 o'clock this afternoon Justice of the Supreme Court Charles Hughes was made the Republican Presidential candidate in a convention that was remarkable for the general solemnity of its proceedings. The nomination was arrived at following the announcement that the Progressives had taken without consideration of the request of the Republican convention that it consider the advisability of Hughes as a candidate and just a few moments before the roll call that nominated the Justice was completed, the news came from the rival convention that Roosevelt had been nominated by acclamation by the Progressives. The official ballot was Hughes 919 1-2, Weeks 3, Roosevelt 18 1-2, Du Pont 5, La Follette 3, Lodge 7, absent 1. Total voting 958. Fairbanks was nominated as candidate for Vice President.

Auditorium, June 10, 2 p. m.—Theodore Roosevelt was unanimously nominated for president of the United States by the Progressive convention at 12:31 o'clock this afternoon. The nomination was amid most exciting scenes and followed with a mighty demonstration. Henry Alden, after he learned the Republicans had nominated Justice Hughes, said he knew Col. Roosevelt would accept the Progressive nomination.

Washington, June 10.—Hughes this afternoon received at his home news of his nomination by the Republicans. He said: "I don't know anything about it except what you newspapermen tell me. If it is true I shall have a statement to make at 3 o'clock." He walked down stairs to receive the news from a delegation of newspaper men and was the first to congratulate him.

The ballot of the New England states for vice president was as follows: Maine, Fairbanks, 12; Massachusetts, Fairbanks, 31; Burckett, 1; Johnson, 1; New Hampshire, Fairbanks, 5; Vermont, Fairbanks, 5; Connecticut, Fairbanks, 11; total, Fairbanks, 563; Borah, 1; Burckett, 105; Webster, 2; Johnson, 2; Burton, 2. Four not voting. The nomination was there made unanimous.

RESTS IN HANDS OF ROOSEVELT

The Fate of the Proposed Fusion of the Republican and Progressive Parties Remains to Be Seen

(Special to The Herald)

Chicago, June 10.—The fate of the proposed fusion of the Republican and Progressive parties still rests in the hands of Col. Theodore Roosevelt today. The peace conference committee of the two parties was awaiting his final say regarding what was to be done. The Progressive leaders were told at a conference which did not break up until nearly 3 o'clock this morning, that the nomination of Charles E. Hughes by the Republican convention on the first or second ballot today was a certainty. Today the favorite sons had been well eliminated and the Justice was to get the Sherman strength if early plans were followed.

but should the Progressive leaders and Col. Roosevelt agree upon any one of four men, the Republican peace committee was to appear before the convention and recommend that the individual be named. The four men in question were Hughes, Root, Fairbanks and Cummins.

The Republican conference committee told the Progressive leaders that there was no chance of delivering the Republican convention to Col. Roosevelt and that unless a speedy agreement was reached by the Progressives in accepting one of the quartet or suggesting someone as yet unknown to make the race, it would be impossible to hold the Republican convention back from completing its work.

WOULD COMPROMISE ON SENATOR LODGE

Col. Roosevelt Wires Convention That He Favors Massachusetts Man As Candidate

(Special to The Herald)

Oyster Bay, N. Y., June 10.—Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts is Col. Roosevelt's choice as a compromise candidate to bring the two warring factions, the Progressives and Republicans, together in a harmony pact. The Colonel told his visitors today that Lodge was the man who could bring peace to the party, was highly thought of as a man and an efficient public official. Col. Roosevelt's telegram making this selection was sent to Secretary McGrath at Chicago to be turned over to the Progressive leaders.

proposition that Senator Henry Cabot Lodge be named as compromise candidate did not make much of a hit with the Hughes men. Frank Hitchcock, when told of the suggestion, said: "I think it is very late. The big delegates are for Hughes and will not change at the 11th hour."

The Massachusetts delegation received the suggestion with pleasure. "We would all be for Lodge if he could be nominated," said George B. Wasson. Alvin T. Foster and Henry Kincaid, a Progressive, said they were hopeful Hughes could be named, as it would reunite the party.

ARMY TRUCKS CAPTURED

Mexicans Under Villa Secure Supplies of Punitive Expedition.

(Special to The Herald)

El Paso, June 10.—Fourteen U. S. army trucks laden with supplies for the punitive expedition have been captured by Mexicans under Francisco Villa in a rear guard action near Nampiqui, according to unconfirmed reports received here today. Villa attacked an American rear guard force with a large number of bandits. It was said, so far as could be learned here, no official report of the affair has been made to General Funston.

PEACE CONFEREES AGREE ON HUGHES

Agreement Reached by the Committees at the 11th Hour.

(Special to The Herald)

Chicago, June 10, 1 p. m.—The peace conferees of the Republican and Progressive convention today reached an agreement on Justice Charles E. Hughes as the most available candidate for both the Republican and Progressive nominations for the Presidency. The agreement was reached at the eleventh hour after the Progressive convention had begun its session and the Progressive conferees undertook to present the name of Justice Hughes to their convention at once. "The Progressive conferees have agreed to present the name of Justice Hughes to the Progressive convention," said Senator Borah after the conference broke up. They would not undertake to say what action the convention would take on him as a candidate but in the interest of peace and harmony they agreed to submit his name. It is expected that he will be nominated by the Republican convention within one hour after it convenes today.

The crowd came early to the Republican convention and half an hour before the time scheduled for the convention to start the galleries contained a large number of spectators. The delegates arrived early mingled with friends and congratulated themselves that they were soon to get away. "Hughes on today's first ballot" was the word passing around. It was accepted even by the delegates who on the ballots taken Friday cast their vote against the Justice.

Scattered conferences were held in various parts of the hall. The jam on the floor and in the galleries was the worst so far. The excited delegates jammed the aisles asking what was going to be the outcome.

A committee was sent for to consider the Roosevelt proposition regarding Lodge and it was submitted to them for their decision. Meanwhile it was said the convention would not be called to order until the committee had arrived at a decision. There was no disguising the tension of the situation. The Progressive convention was reported to have got beyond control of the leaders and the Republicans here were not sure what they would do. Hughes' badges had made an appearance in large numbers for the first time. Many of the spectators in the gallery had red ribbons with the name "Hughes" printed in big gold letters on their hats and in other conspicuous places.

At 11:32 a. m. the Republican committee sent a message to Chairman Harding asking him to come there at once. He left the platform accompanied by William S. Bennett, the parliamentarian of the convention. It was understood he would make the arrangements for getting the reports of the peace committee before the convention. A special rule will be necessary to do this as nominations are in order, but it may be possible to suspend the rule by unanimous consent. The Republican convention was called to order at 11:51 a. m. today.

EXCELLENT WORK SHOWN BY MISS MOSES' PUPILS

Four Hours Required to Complete Dancing, the Program Including a Great Number of Feature, Solo and Ensemble Numbers

The Dancing Carnival presented in Freeman's Hall on Friday evening, the exhibition being given by Miss Georgeine Moses and members of her dancing classes, proved to be one of great interest and was appreciated by an audience which taxed the full capacity of the large balcony and every available inch of seating and standing room on the floor. The program was one of great variety, including a number of excellent solo dances, presented in a very finished manner by the young artists; several ensemble numbers which demonstrated Miss Moses' originality in composition and two fine solo numbers presented by Miss Moses herself.

The program was a lengthy one, taking nearly four hours to complete, but each of the dances were of such interest that none were tired or disinterested when the last dance, Miss Moses' solo dance "The Sammamish," was presented. The hall was beautifully decorated in a manner never before attempted in the city; the scheme combining a little of the art of the "futurist" and the more familiar scheme. The front of the balcony, and the sides and top of the stage opening were backed with a wide black and white striped cloth. Over this long festoon of laurel had been draped and above these festoons shorter festoons of orange had been used. The four colors were tastefully used in the other decorations which included pennants, rosettes, and decorated electric lights.

Among the solo dances which scored decided hits were Miss Moses, Gertrude Moran, Zyltha Woods, Yvonne Raynes, Paul Holland, Regina Caswell, C. Colgate Fish, and Miss Hope Waldron. Each of these artists were excellent and their work testified to the careful training Miss Moses had given them.

The evening opened with the reception of the younger members of the class, Miss Moses being assisted in receiving by the following five little girls, all members of her younger classes:—Marguerite Valz, Ruth Hassett, Vivian Eldridge, Ruth Little, Lena Smith.

During the reception a pleasing concert program was rendered by a ten piece orchestra under the direction of G. Bernard Whitman of Haverhill, Mass., formerly of this city. At the close of the reception the line was formed for one of the prettiest marches ever presented in Portsmouth. It was led by Ruth Hassett and Kenneth Smart, two of the smallest children in the classes. Each of the marchers and there were nearly one hundred in the line, carried a flag of some nation, the two leaders carrying flags of the United States. The marchers executed a great number of intricate figures and concluded by forming the initials "U. S." the orchestra having been lined in their march number to be playing the American National Anthem as the letters were formed. This movement called practically the entire audience to a standing position and the applause was sincere and hearty.

The next seven numbers of the program were presented by the members of the classes and included both modern and old-time dances, all of which were well received, the little dancers performing their steps in a creditable and excellent manner.

The first feature number was the Dutch Kiddles, in costume, with Zyltha Woods as the soloist. The dance was started by Miss Moses caused several hearty laughs in its opening and was decidedly novel. Two of the smaller girls, in Dutch peasant costume, were dragged onto the floor in the Dutch milk cart, drawn by a little "peasant" boy. When he reached the center of the floor he allowed the handles to escape from him and the little passengers were deposited onto the floor in a heap. They were quickly followed by twenty boys and girls, in costume, wearing the wooden shoes of the nation and a pretty dance was executed. Miss Woods made her entrance carrying a yoke from which milk pails were suspended and she presented a very clever Dutch solo dance which was highly appreciated and heartily applauded. She scored highly in her work which was excellent.

Gertrude Moran's number hit the popular taste and was a dance by "Miss Preparedness." She was prettily costumed in black and white and carried a rifle. Her steps were difficult and were finely executed and her entire number, in which she carried the United States flag in place of the rifle, was just as highly pleasing and finely presented.

Paul Holland, a little chap in evening clothes and top hat, gave a clever impersonation of a young blood who had spent the evening "looking on the wine when it was red" and attempting to make his way home. His eyesight was affected and in place of one clock he "Big Ben" was dancing around him. The number was one of the evening's successes and each of the seven boys taking part in it did remarkably well. The clocks were large and nearly covered the boys from sight.

Yvonne Raynes also scored a decided hit in her solo dance in the Egyptian Ballet. She was graceful and well trained and performed her number without any degree of nervousness. The dance was entirely original and she was finely supported by her ten assistants, who were costumed in either black and white stripes or deep yellow. Miss Raynes was gowned in dark yellow with gold trimmings.

As Peter Pan, Zyltha Woods had an extremely hard number to perform, the dance being interpretive. She made a charming figure and she executed her many movements in a manner truly artistic and pleasing. Her work was given hearty and well merited applause. Her costume was very pretty, a dark shade of green being the main color plan.

As "Idilio" Regina Caswell, in the solo of the dance of the Blue Hambo was also a feature. This number was one of the novelties which pleased the large audience and the solo work of the little artist and the pretty effect and excellent work of her supporting company, all members of the artistic class, was highly approved. It was applauded to the echo. The dancers were gowned in light and dark blue gauze and carried blue veils which gave the effects of the dancing waves.

Charles Colgate Fish presented a difficult Polish solo dance in an excellent manner, scoring a decided hit by his artistic and finished work. The ensemble dance of this number was perhaps the best presented of any of these numbers.

Hope Waldron's work in the solo part of the Oriental Dance was highly artistic and cleverly presented. The number was a feature of the program, the soloist having been carried in on a litter by bearers, after the number had been opened by the other dancers. Each of the young ladies taking part in this difficult dance performed their work with the finish of trained artists.

In both of her numbers Miss Moses was obliged to give several encores and by her excellent work she stamped herself as one of the most finished solo dancers seen in Portsmouth outside of the highest salaried professional artists. Her work was appreciated in its fullest extent by her audience and all were highly pleased by her exhibitions, both of which were very difficult.

The other numbers included the novelty Ballroom Dance, in which each of the little artists were almost completely covered by toy balloons. This dance was pretty and interesting and the little children were heartily applauded for the fine performance.

"The Crinoline Dance" was a pretty novelty of the old time dances which were enjoyed by our great-grand-grandparents. It was presented by ten young ladies and ten young gentlemen of the adult class in costume. The opening was a pretty innovation and the entire number was a real hit. The costumes of the girls added much to the brilliancy of the dance and the dancers were artistic in their work.

One of the most interesting numbers was the novelty dance, "Ragging the Scale" as presented by eight of the older couples, all members of the adult classes. The eight girls wore costumes of white as Pierrettes and the boys were in black as pierrots. This dance was one of the decided ensemble hits of the evening.

At the close of the program a short intermission was held and refreshments were served by Andrew Jarvis, proprietor of Nichols and Company. Following the intermission general dancing was enjoyed for more than an hour. A large number remaining until the close of the evening.

were near the Savages and not far from Thatcher's Island, so close to shore that they were obliged to tack. Finally he could not weather, Captain Mitchell decided to run for this harbor, but he was not able to make it. His vessel was driven to the beach. An effort was made to reef the mainsail but it got away from the crew. The foresail and jib were then used.

When it was seen that the schooner must go ashore the crew decided to take to the boat, in which they placed suit cases containing their personal effects including about $50 belonging to the captain.

Just as they were about to cast off, a giant combler washed over the vessel and the boat was crushed like an egg shell and the debris carried away. Captain Mitchell then sighted the Plover Island station and headed the craft for it.

The Josie was built at Columbia Falls, Me., in 1870 and was rebuilt two years ago. She had the cargo of laths were owned by the Machias Lumber Company, the cargo consigned to Simpson & Capp of New York. The vessel was valued at $300 and her cargo at $1500.

There was no insurance on either. The Josie was aground in Southwest Harbor, Mt. Desert, Me., last April and was hauled off by the U. S. revenue cutter Osprey. The repairs necessitated by that accident cost her owners $1000.

Last evening the stern of the vessel had been carried away and it was expected the demolition would be completed by the tide.

The two masted schooner Virginian from Clemenaport, N. S., was driven ashore at Sillsbury Beach about 6 o'clock Friday evening after efforts to work her out of the bay had failed. The wind blew a gale from the north-east and a high sea was running.

Captain W. A. Charles of the Sillsbury Beach coast guard station, on duty alone, had anxiously watched the vessel as she labored, and hurried two miles down the beach with the creeches buoy apparatus.

A crowd of 200 gathered. Just before Captain Charles arrived, Fred Andrews succeeded in throwing a brick with a line attached aboard the vessel which facilitated the work of rigging the breeches buoy.

Other volunteers aided in the work and the crew of the Virginian was hauled ashore. They were Captain David Robinson, Frank Walker, cook; Oscar Ring and his two sons, William Ring and Owen Ring. They were in bad shape and were hurried to the Hotel Denials where they were given attendance.

The Virginian was loaded with cord wood for Lynn, much of which was washed overboard. She is valued at $2500 and there is a partial insurance. It is believed that the vessel will be a total loss.

RUSSIANS PURSUING AUSTRIAN FORCES

Thrust Has Already Penetrated Hole 37 by 90 Miles in the Lines of the Enemy and Austrian Slav Troops are Demoralized

London, June 9.—Information has reached the Russian Embassy in Rome that the Austrian front has been completely broken along a length of 91 miles to a depth of 37 1/2 miles, according to a Central News despatch to day from the Italian capital.

A Reuter despatch from Petrograd today reports the continuation of the Russian successes in Volynia and Galicia. The capture of an additional 155 officers and 1,317 men is announced.

Austrian Front Smashed In

Petrograd, June 9.—Special wireless express the belief that the Russian successes against the Austrians are far more important than appears from the official announcements. The Daily Telegraph's correspondent ventures the assertion on the authority of a prominent Russian expert that "all five Austrian armies are on the eve of a general retreat and that Lemberg is in great strategic danger." On the same authority it is asserted that "a strategic breach one hundred miles wide has been blown in the Austrian front, involving the armies of General Count von Bothmer and General von Boehm-Ermolli and part of that of Archduke Joseph Ferdinand." According to other correspondents the Russian success is largely due to the unprecedented use of artillery, surpassing in intensity any previous efforts on either side on the east front. The retreat of many Austrian trench detachments was completely cut off by a curtain of shrapnel through which it was impossible for any living thing to pass, and the Austrians were thus compelled to surrender en masse. The Times estimates the Austrian losses at 200,000.

51,000 Prisoners Taken

The official communication says: "On Tuesday we developed our offensive in the direction of Horne and Kovel and, keeping on the heels of the overthrown enemy, and following a battle in the region of Lutsk, we occupied that town. In many places we not only seized the lines of the Rivers Dniester and Styr, but have crossed them and continued our offensive. In Galicia, on the lower Strypa, our infantry, supported by artillery fire, has captured by an energetic advance a number of powerful enemy organized positions on the front of Triloukhovitsky-Jakovetz, and has arrived near the line of the Strypa river. "In addition to the 40,000 prisoners previously taken, we took in the course of yesterday's fighting 55 officers and about 11,000 men, and captured a number of guns and machine guns, a quantity of other weapons, field kitchens and telephone material.

On the Dniester front and in the Lake region south of Delusk there have been violent fusillades at many places. The Germans have been bombed by a concentrated fire of the Russian bridge-head. Repeated German attempts to advance in the region south of Baurgon were frustrated by our fire. South of Kiev the enemy artillery fired just on our positions."

German Blow at Thiaumont

Paris, June 9.—The Germans have launched a general attack along the entire front on the right bank of the Meuse and have penetrated the French line at one point, but were repulsed elsewhere with heavy loss, according to an official statement issued by the War Office today. The point where the Germans entered the French lines is in the neighborhood of Thiaumont farm. The Germans also made two small attacks southwest of Hill 304, but these attacks, the statement says, were repulsed.

The text of the statement follows: "On the left bank of the river Meuse we repulsed last night two small attacks against positions to the southwest of Hill 304.

"On the right bank of the river the Germans are continuing to deliver violent attacks along a front of about two kilometers (1 1/2 miles) stretching east and west of the Thiaumont farm. Between the farm and the Callette wood, the enemy penetrated one of our trenches. All their endeavors on the west have been checked with heavy losses to the enemy.

"In the region of St. Mihiel a detachment of the enemy which was endeavoring to approach our lines to the east of Bisse was dispersed by our fire."

The night report reads: "On the left bank of the Meuse the artillery activity was maintained with intensity in the section of Hill 304 and the region of Chantonnay.

"On the right bank the enemy, after a violent bombardment, directed successive attacks against our positions west and east of the Thiaumont farm. All these attacks failed under our curtain of fire and the fire of our machine guns.

"The cannonading was violent in the region west of Pont-a-Mousson; intermittent on the rest of the front."

British Raid at La Bassée

London, June 9.—The British official statement issued at midnight reads: "The principal activity in the past twenty-four hours has been in the section between Vimy ridge and La Bassée Canal, where mine warfare was particularly in evidence. Six mines and countermines have been exploded with results, generally speaking, in our favor.

"Near the Hohenzollern redoubt, the explosion of one of our mines considerably damaged the enemy defenses, and after the explosion our sappers accounted for nine of the garrison.

"Around Souchez there has been a good deal of work with trench mortars and along the whole section the artillery of both sides has been active.

"Just south of La Bassée Canal we carried out a successful raid last night inflicting losses on the enemy. The garrison of the raided trenches fled, leaving the dead on the ground.

"The situation at Hooge is unchanged and there have been no infantry actions today. The artillery of both sides shelled intermittently both day and night.

"Elsewhere on the front there was no special incident, the day passing quietly."

NEW METHOD MAKING ANTI-HOG CHOLERA SERUM

(Office of Information, U. S. Dept. of Agriculture.)

Washington, D. C., June 10.—A new method of preparing anti-hog cholera serum, which permits the economical production of a clear sterilized product, has just been described in the Journal of Agricultural Research of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The advantage claimed for the new method is that it makes possible the production of an anti-hog cholera serum, which can be quickly sterilized by heat to a point that will absolutely kill any germs of foot-and-mouth disease and so yield a serum that is absolutely safe even if taken from a hog which might harbor foot-and-mouth disease and yet give no indication of being infected.

The method, as described by its discoverers, Dr. Marion Dorset and R. R. Henley, of the Biochemic Division, Bureau of Animal Industry, consists in adding a slight amount of an extract from ordinary white navy beans to the defibrinated hog-cholera-immune blood which has been the form of the serum used in the past. The addition of this bean extract causes the red cells of the blood to agglutinate and when the mixture is whirled on a centrifuge the red cells pack together and form a rather stiff jelly-like mass. It is then possible to pour off a clear serum, leaving behind the red cells which play no part in preventing hog cholera and which in fact simply tend to dilute the serum and render its sterilization by heat impracticable. To increase the yield of clear serum the discoverers added a small amount of ordinary salt and found that they obtained from 70 to 74 per cent of clear serum. The clear serum thus obtained it was found could be heated for 30 minutes at a temperature of 60 degrees Centigrade without changing its consistency or lessening in any way its effectiveness in preventing hog cholera. The heating to this point for this time is more than sufficient to kill any germs of foot-and-mouth disease which might accidentally be present.

Practical tests with hogs show that probably all of the antibodies useful in combating hog cholera were retained in the serum and the red cells extracted contained so few, if any, of these valuable bodies as to make the residue of red cells useless in preventing the disease.

Before the clear serum was developed, many attempts were made to sterilize by heat in a practicable way the ordinary defibrinated blood. It was found, however, that heating the old product up to 60 degrees Centigrade resulted in more or less complete coagulation of the defibrinated blood and in the destruction of the serum so far as its commercial worth is concerned. It was found that the highest temperature that could be used was 60 degrees Centigrade and it was necessary to keep the old serum at this temperature for 12 hours to make certain that the virus of foot-and-mouth disease was killed. Heating serum at a steady temperature over this long period in ordinary practice is difficult and too expensive.

Attempts also were made to make a clear serum by centrifuging. It was found, however, that while the centrifuge would separate to some extent the red cells, they were in such shape that it was difficult to separate the serum completely. An important quantity of antibodies were left behind in the red clot, and the resulting product was a cloudy rather than a clear serum. With this process, moreover, it was possible ordinarily to secure only about 50 per cent of serum. Under the new method it is possible to secure as high as 74 per cent of clear serum, which in actual test has proved to be fully potent. This clear serum, moreover, can be completely sterilized in 30 minutes, whereas the old serum had to be heated steadily for 12 hours.

The new form of serum, as far as the Department knows is not yet being made or put on sale by the commercial serum laboratories. As this process was discovered by the Federal government, any one in the United States is free to use it.

GOVERNORS TO DISCUSS
WORLD COMMERCE

Salt Lake City, June 10.—American in the world markets is to be the general subject considered by the sixth annual session of the Governors' Conference, which is to open here on Tuesday, June 27, according to the program announced today by Secretary Miles C. Riley.

Among the speakers and subjects announced are, "A Land Settlement Policy," by Governor H. W. Johnson of California; "What the South Should do to Meet the New Conditions following the Close of the World War," by Governor Charles Henderson of Alabama; "The Great Lakes to the Gulf Waterway," by Governor B. F. Dunne of Illinois.

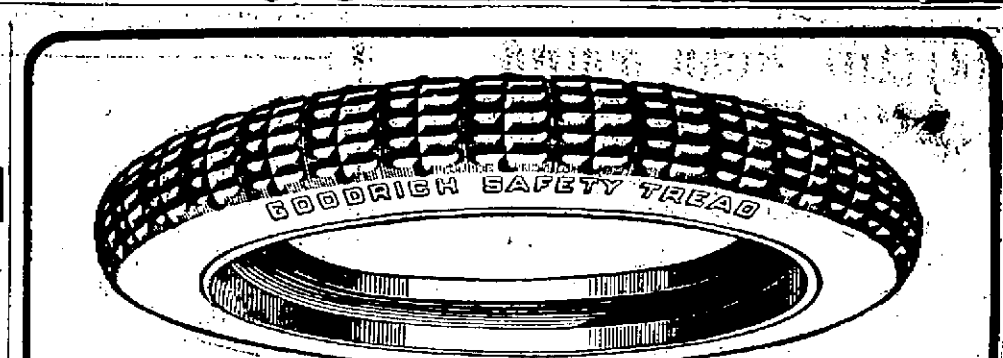

Other addresses on different phases of the same general subject are to be delivered by Governors Ernest Lister of Washington, George A. Carlson of Colorado, James W. Whitcomb of Oregon and George W. P. Hunt of Arizona.

Though definite announcement is not made it is expected that Governor Charles H. Whitman of New York and Governor Samuel W. McCall of Massachusetts will be on the program.

Governor Roland H. Spaulding of New Hampshire is to respond to the address of welcome by Governor William Spry, who as chief executive of Utah will act as host to the visitors. Governors of most of the 48 states are expected to attend.

"Many of the governors are very much awake to the necessity for the states and the federal government giving legislative aid and encouragement to the work of preparing for the keener competition and less wasteful methods which are to play so important a part in world commerce immediately following the close of the great war," said secretary Riley.

"Many of them have been watching the rapid changes in European business methods. They are convinced that America must meet these changes by looking well to some of the fundamental principles underlying the development of resources and the methods of the country."

The Protection of Birds.

Many people this spring have remarked that birds are more numerous than usual about their homes and that among the feathered tribe are varieties that have seldom or never been noticed in the past. The Baltimore Oriole appears to be more common in many sections than in other years. This is one of the most beautiful of all birds and is a decided ornament to any premises on which it sees fit to make its summer home. Robins, bluebirds, catbirds and all of the ordinary bird visitors are on hand in good numbers, adding their beauty to the scenes and their music to the pleasant sounds of the summer season.

This is not only very pleasing in itself, but it is a good sign. It signifies that the campaign for the protection of birds which has been waged in recent years is bearing fruit, that the bird family is increasing and that the protection afforded is increasing its confidence. The result is that the birds are coming in larger numbers to cheer by their presence and their songs and to do valuable work in preying upon the pests of gardens and fruit trees.

There is much to indicate that the movement for the protection of birds has resulted in great good. All can remember the time when it was not uncommon for boys to rob birds' nests with impunity, and the time when the collection was considered something to be proud of in spite of the fact that every specimen meant one less bird in the world. Happily, the time came when the people woke up to the wrongfulness of all this and set their faces in another direction. It was discovered that the birds were worth protecting, not only for their beauty and song, but for their practical usefulness as insect destroyers, and from that time a healthful change has been taking place. The champion boys and girls now are those who afford most protection to the birds, who build the most houses for them and who study and admire them most.

And the effect upon the children is not the least of the gains that have come from the movement for the protection of birds. Children who are considerate of the birds will be kind to all living creatures and will become better and happier men and women. Consequently the songs of the birds that are present in such large numbers this spring may well be regarded as notes of triumph arising from the success of the campaign that has been and is still being waged for the safeguarding of the feathered tribe.

Congressman Bailey of Pennsylvania attacks the idea of a tariff board such as that proposed by President Wilson, which is substantially the same as that advocated by President Taft. He thinks such investigation as is necessary should be made by the ways and means committee and the finance committee, which should have power to employ such experts as might be necessary. The people of the country are not so particular about the exact method, but there is a growing belief that the regulation of the tariff should be taken out of politics and conducted on business principles. And sooner or later this will have to be done.

President and Mrs. Wilson attended the Confederate memorial exercises at Arlington cemetery June 4 and received an ovation, although the president did not speak. What a great and happy change has taken place in this country in the last half century. Now as never before can it truly be said that there is no North, no South, no East, no West.

The Plattsburg training camp is filling rapidly and the military mill there will soon be grinding out officers by the wholesale. The disposition to take military training seems to be very general and there is reason to believe that the country will be in a position to take care of itself whenever action may be called for.

When the Statue of Liberty was set up in New York harbor years ago it was supposed to be enlightening, or lighting, the world, but now great sums of money are being collected to pay for lighting the statue. The people of this country will never lack for something to contribute to.

Matters in Santo Domingo remain in a highly unsettled state and more marines are to be forwarded from the United States. It is not probable that there will be any serious trouble, but the administration evidently purposes to be on the safe side.

A contemporary says: "There is just one way for America to be a peaceful democracy, and that is to be an adequately armed democracy." All will agree to that. The question to be determined is what will constitute "adequate" arming.

Coney Island had 300,000 visitors last Sunday, with a revolver battle thrown in by way of variety. There is only one Coney Island, and as a seaside resort of nightily mixed attractions it has no rival.

DOESN'T WANT SECOND TERM

Gov. Spaulding Issues Statement Saying He Will Not Be Candidate.

Concord, June 10.—Gov. Rolland H. Spaulding issued a statement last night saying that he would not be a candidate for a second term. No Governor of New Hampshire for 40 years has been re-elected, but several State papers have come out in favor of the re-nomination of Gov. Spaulding by the Republicans and he has received many personal assurances of support in various sections of the State.

"It was not from my personal desire to hold office," his statement says, "that I became a candidate in 1914, but because of the solicitation of those who believed that the best interests of the State would be served by my election as Governor. It is very pleasing to me to have this same feeling expressed to an even greater extent as my term of service near its end."

"But after the most careful consideration of all the factors involved, I cannot see that the situation is such, either from a political standpoint or with regard to the future progress and well-being of the State, as to require of me the personal sacrifice which would be involved in my candidacy for another term."

BOSTON ITEMS

Boston, June 10.—The Federal fiscal year ends June 30, and Collector of Internal Revenue John E. Malley, has issued notices to all persons, corporations or business firms subject to Government Internal Revenue tax that such taxes should be paid at his office on or before the last of this month. Taxes are due from the following classes:

Brewers, rectifiers, wholesalers and retail liquor dealers, wholesalers and retail malt liquor dealers, manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers of shoe, magazine, who are liable to tax for one year ending June 30, 1917.

Bankers, brokers, commission merchants, proprietors of theatres, circuses and other exhibitions, proprietors of bowling alleys and billiard rooms, manufacturers of tobacco, cigars and cigarettes, dealers in leaf tobacco and retail dealers in tobacco whose annual sales are in excess of $200, who are liable to one half the annual tax, covering the six months period from July 1, 1916 to December 31, 1916.

Physicians, dentists, veterinarians, druggists and all others who are registered under the narcotic law, who are liable for the payment of $1 for the renewal of their registry to June 30, 1916.

Individuals and corporations who are liable for the payment of their income tax prior to June 30, 1916.

A campaign of education among farmers and game lovers is being conducted by the Massachusetts Fish and Game Commission to encourage the proper use of upland game birds and water fowl in this State on a large scale. Chairman William C. Adams declares that if the residents of the State of Massachusetts will co-operate with the commission the commission will show them in a very few years how their revenue by hundreds of thousands of dollars annually through the breeding of quail, Hungarian partridge and grouse on the waste lands of the State.

At the present time there are but 567 license holders in the State who are given the privilege of dealing in wild game or game out of season. It is against the law for others than those holding licenses to have game in their possession for purposes of sale and it is the desire of the commission to see to it that there will be plenty of opportunity for all game lovers to breed such wild fowl or game as are now purchased in outside markets.

A dress rehearsal of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology Annual Pageant is to be given this evening in the great court of the Institute building in Cambridge for the benefit of the public. The pageant will be the same in every respect as the one to be staged before the Alumni on June 13 except for the trip of the state barge across the Charles river basin and the fire works following the performance. The rehearsal tonight will be the public's only opportunity to witness the spectacle as the entire seating capacity of Tuesday's performance will be taken up by Technical graduates and their relatives and friends.

Invitations have been extended to clergymen of all denominations to attend the big mass meeting to be held in Symphony hall, Sunday, June 18, by the Friends of Irish Freedom. Mayor James M. Coffey will preside.

WILL MEET AT LACONIA

The annual meeting of the Graduate Nurses' Association of New Hampshire will be held at Laconia next Wednesday afternoon. Notice of the meeting have been sent out by Miss Grace Lucas of Concord the corresponding secretary.

CURRENT OPINION

We Should Be Prepared to Protect Our Rights and Enforce Justice.

Under conditions which now exist and which are likely to continue to exist for many generations the feeling of moral responsibility to see, through the application of force if necessary, that justice as we know it is maintained is essential if we are to hold on to such peace and order and security for individual and community rights as our race by long centuries of struggle has obtained.

Thus the possibility of further social progress toward a more perfect law within the nation and international peace lies today, as it has for centuries, in the instinct which insists that injustice to others must be prevented, even though force is necessary to that end.

I believe in being "prepared for war," not because I am especially interested in defense, admittedly important as that question is, but because the principle that a wrong done by one nation to another imposes on us as a great world power a moral obligation will forever remain nothing but a high sounding form of words unless we are prepared practically to carry out the principle by preventing by force a wrong to a neighbor when the wrong cannot be otherwise prevented.

That world peace cannot be brought about by suppressing, as the pacifists would have us suppress, the moral instinct that I am my brother's keeper.—By William Draper Lewis, Professor of Law, University of Pennsylvania.

The Observer

It will be learned with deep regret by the friends of Brig. Gen. Truro L. Sanborn, dean of the last New Hampshire legislature and one of the oldest and best known military men in the State, that his death occurred at his home in Chichester on Friday. He was born July 30, 1827, and enlisted for the Civil war, Sept. 11, 1861, being discharged for disability Nov. 2, 1861, with the rank of captain. After the war he was identified for many years with the State Militia, being honorably discharged on May 16, 1894, with the rank of colonel. By act of the legislature of 1909 he was brevetted brigadier general. He was a farmer, lumberman and surveyor. He was the oldest member of the House of Representatives in 1915; took an active part in the proceedings as chairman of the committee on military affairs and frequently was called upon to act as temporary presiding officer. On the occasion of the visit of the committee on military affairs to this city in February, 1915, in connection with the completion of the Portsmouth armory, Brig. Gen. Sanborn was present and accompanied the party to Fort Constitution where he was escorted about the reservation by Captain E. A. Wallace. No member of the party took a keener interest in the day's program and when shown the working of the big disappearing guns, he declared that the only thing to complete the program would be to see them in action. At the reception and banquet at the Rockingham Hotel, Brig. Gen. Sanborn endeavored himself with all who met him and I feel sure that his demise will cause genuine sorrow among those who knew him in this city.

The death of Police Officer Frank H. West who was appointed a member of the police force on April 2, 1915 when the police commission was inaugurated, recalls the fact that of the original force that went on duty at that time under City Marshal Phineas H. Butterfield, only four are now connected with the present force, Chief Michael Hurley, who has seen upwards of a quarter of a century of police duty; J. Frank Shannon, another veteran in point of service having seen twenty-eight years on the force, at various periods. The other two are Patrolmen Michael Kelley and James McCaffery, the former was a member of the old police force while Mr. McCaffery began his service as an officer when the commissioners assumed charge. For a time the city was patrolled by two sets of officers those chosen by the commission and those elected by the city government, but the latter finally gave way to the inevitable.

One of the most active of the social clubs of the city is the Venechase club, which during its several years of existence its members have won fame as basketball players as well as entertainers, the dances given under the auspices of the club, being exceedingly popular. The name Venechase has occasioned more or less comment owing to its oddness and a few days ago, a person asked the writer if he knew the origin of the name, whether it was an Indian name or not. Inquiry revealed the fact that the name originated by four young men, Harold B. Wendell, Sherman P. Newton, John J. Hassett and Philip H. Sanderson taking the first two letters of their name for a dance that was to be held under their auspices. Little did they realize at the time that a successful social club would originate from the same.

Attention, Veteran Firemen! You are earnestly requested to meet at the rooms of the Franklin Pierce V. F. DEMOCRATS WILL LEAVE ON SUNDAY

Not Many Party Men From This State to Accompany Delegation.

The New Hampshire delegation to the Democratic national convention will leave Boston tomorrow, arriving in St. Louis sometime on Tuesday, the day before the convention is slated to begin. Few if any Democrats from this State, other than the members of the delegation, are expected to attend. It is certain that no Manchester men will go.

GERMANS ARE UNSUCCESSFUL

No Infantry Action on Either Side During the Night.

(Special to The Herald) Paris, June 10.—Following their unsuccessful assault with liquid fire against the French position at Hill 301, the Germans did not deliver any assaults on the Verdun front last night. The war office stated today that there was no infantry action on either side. During the lull in the infantry fighting however, the big guns were active on both sides. On the western side of the Meuse the Germans directed their fire against the French position in Avocourt wood. To the east of the Meuse, the Germans directed a violent cannonade in Chapple woods and along Fumel ridge.

WILL SURVEY IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

Officials of the United States Public Health Service are making an extensive survey of stream pollution conditions in New Hampshire and are working in conjunction with the State Board of Health and will make their headquarters in Concord. Those making the survey include Assistant Surgeon L. R. Thompson, Sanitary Engineer H. E. Tarbett and W. G. Stromquist, all practically and theoretically fitted for the undertaking. The state health officials are much interested in the survey and expect to obtain much needed information regarding conditions in the state.

BUILDING MEETING AT THE ROCKINGHAM, MONDAY EVENING

PORTSMOUTH BUILDING ASSOCIATION IS EXTENDING AN INVITATION TO ALL INTERESTED IN BUILDING BOOM

The Portsmouth Building Association formed some little time ago has sent out notices to its shareholders and is extending an invitation to all others to meet at the Rockingham Hotel on Monday evening at 8.00 o'clock. The object of the meeting is to discuss a business proposal that is believed will be of great advantage to the city of Portsmouth.

In speaking of the meeting one of the officers said last evening: "Everyone who has the future growth of Portsmouth from an industrial standpoint is urged to be present. An opportunity has presented itself to Portsmouth to expand its manufacturing and it is this opportunity that the Portsmouth Building Association has been working on since its incorporation and the time seems right to carry out the plans of the Association. To do this the Merchants, Professional men and all who are interested in increasing our population and commercial growth are urged to be present."

HUGHES REFLECTS ON HIS DISCUSSION WITH WICKERSHAM

Washington, June 9.—While reporters and president-makers were doing their darndest at Chicago today, Associate Justice Charles Evans Hughes was:

Taking a walk in a rainy drizzle studying opinions.

And thinking over what he was told yesterday by George W. Wickersham, attorney-general in the Taft cabinet, and one of the strongest Hughes boosters who ever hit the pike.

Wickersham is one of the original, dyed-in-the-wool, triple-X Hughes boosters. He hasn't been very active, openly, in politics for some years, but the signed piece he had published in a New York paper last Sunday to the extent of a page stuck in the craw of Washington's stay-at-home politicians in spite of fevered denials by the Hughes household today that his confab with Justice Hughes yesterday had any political significance or was any way apropos of the Republican free-for-all at Chicago.

That signed piece by Wickersham, by the by, had for its theme Hughes and Hughes only for President of the United States. It was surrounded by was built up on a foundation of, and excluded Hughes sentiment. There was nothing but Hughes in it, so politicians here pointed out today. And as a result the arguments they put forth were about as follows:

Wickersham MUST have told Hughes he'd have to accept it if he were nominated by both Progressives and Republicans, provided no mud is slung before the ballots that nominate are tabulated.

Wickersham did talk on more than mere personal subjects, in view of the Chicago situation.

Hughes must have shown some interest in what is going on at Chicago, since all other Americans and especially those of us who are being prominently mentioned to be President of these United States are interested.

However, Wickersham in his suite at the Willard Hotel, insisted today he came here to have his teeth fixed and that he merely called on Hughes as a matter of courtesy to ask him "how."

Notwithstanding the inclement weather of Saturday, train travel to the Maine summer resorts was unusually heavy, all of the cars on the Boston and Portland express leaving here at 10:45 being well filled.

Tomorrow, Sunday the members of the active and veteran fire department will honor their departed members by attending memorial services at the Court Street Christian Church and listening to a sermon by Rev. Percy W. Caswell. A committee will decorate the graves of the departed ones.

TO EVERYBODY

Who owns an automobile. I take this method of informing you that I have in my employ a first class, up-to-date automobile tire vulcanizer, who comes direct from the factory of the Firestone Tire Co., of Akron, Ohio, there having learned the art of the vulcanizing thoroughly, and can serve you perfectly satisfactory in quality and price reasonable. Please give us a trial. FREDERICK WATKINS, 111 Hanover St.

RAILROAD MAN BADLY INJURED

Falls From Hand Car; 18 Stitches Required to Close Scalp Wound.

Amos Mason of Kittery, a section hand on the Boston and Maine was badly injured near the East depot on Friday afternoon. Mason, with others of the section crew were moving quite fast on a hand car when he lost his balance and fell off in front of the car. Before the car could be stopped he was dragged several feet between the rails and when picked up was nearly unconscious. He was put aboard the Somersworth-Portsmouth freight train and brought to Portsmouth depot where the ambulance removed him to the Portsmouth hospital. Dr. Taylor was called and took 18 stitches to close up a bad scalp wound. No bones were found broken but he was considerably cut and bruised about the body.

Mason is a former employee of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad and recently moved to Kittery from Massachusetts.

THE HERALD HEARS

That every business man interested in the interest of Portsmouth should be at the Rockingham on Monday night.

That the meeting to be held there means something to the city and its people.

That many of the residents of Portsmouth are of the opinion that the fire alarm system should either be repaired quickly or taken out.

That the Red, White and Blue should be flying everywhere in this city on Wednesday.

That the value of the Portsmouth navy yard to the government was made plain in the article from Bear Admiral John R. Edwards printed in this paper on Friday.

That the superior court may come from Exeter to Portsmouth next week.

That the time is not far away when the fire department will need a pair of new horses at the central station.

That a Laid street business man says the duck business is just immense.

That the boys expect an invite to his farm and have a peep at his foreign water fowl.

That the surf at Hampton Beach has been breaking high on the beach for the past three days.

That the new cutting house on Daniel street will be a Baltimore style lunch equipment.

That the men in the fire department and the politicians in ward four are wondering why Captain Chandler took the count and snatched his bid from the political ring.

That Mayor Ladd has not as yet appointed his committee on the proposed street paving as ordered at the last regular meeting of the city council.

That the police board are inclined to give patrolmen a little raise in pay.

That this increase will not include any for a lady police officer.

That the boys expect an invite to his farm and have a peep at his foreign water fowl.

That the surf at Hampton Beach has been breaking high on the beach for the past three days.

SECTION HANDS GET A RAISE

Increase Has Nothing to Do With Recent Strike of Trackmen.

The pay of the section hands of the Boston and Maine Railroad has been increased 10 cents per day beginning today. The increase comes as a result of a conference between a committee of section men and the officials of the engineering department dating back to the first part of the spring at which time the Boston and Maine officials stated that if the company was in a position to advance the pay of the men later it would be done.

This, however, has nothing to do with the recent strike of the section men and is an outside matter entirely, but many of the men who went out as strikers four or five weeks ago are coming back and taking their jobs wherever the company feels disposed to re-instate them.
